As Hong Kong company law no longer invariably tracks its English counterpart, this text has been written specifically to highlight key issues of Hong Kong company law and practice where the Companies Ordinance has departed from the English model. Accordingly, the book will be particularly valuable to practitioners in Hong Kong.

Preface The New Companies Ordinance.

The commencement of the new Companies Ordinance, Chapter 622 of the Laws of Hong Kong , on 3 March 2014

will herald a new era for Hong Kong's company law. The new Companies

Ordinance (“the New Ordinance”), which consists of 21 Parts, 921 sections and 11

Schedules is, I believe, one of the longest and most complex pieces of legislation

ever enacted in Hong Kong.

Company Law. The course will explore the economic and political context of Company Law and in particular, the way in which the law seeks to strike a balance between the interests of companies, shareholders, creditors, and the public. Students will also evaluate the place and role of Hong Kong companies, and companies in general, in modern society.

and to increase bonding with the target country. This book examines the listing by Chinese companies on the Hong Kong stock market. It discusses the extent of the phenomenon, compares the two different regulatory regimes, and explores the motivations for the cross-listing. It argues that a key factor, in addition to raising capital and bonding with the Hong Kong market, is Chinese companies' desire to encourage legal and regulatory reforms along Hong Kong lines in mainland China, in order to develop and open up China's domestic capital markets.

A combination of scholarly, commercial, and popular interests has generated a large quantity of literature on every aspect of Chinese life during the past two decades. This bibliography reflects these combined interests; it is broken up into sections by subject headings, and cross-references

The book focusses on the enforcement of consumer law in order to identify commonalities and best practices across nations. It is composed of twenty-eight contributions from national rapporteurs to the IACL Congress in Montevideo in 2016 and the introductory comparative general report. The national contributors are drawn from across the globe, with representation from Africa (1), Asia (5), Europe (15), Oceania (2) and the Americas (5). The general report proposes a general introduction to the question of enforcement and effectiveness of consumer law. It then proceeds to identify the variety of ways in which national legislatures approach this question and the diversity of mechanisms put in place to address it. The general report uses examples drawn from the reports to illustrate common approaches and to identify more original or distinct unique approaches, taking into account the reported strengths and weaknesses of each. The general report consistently points readers to particular national reports on specific issues, inviting readers to consult these individual contributions for more details. The national contributions deal with the following areas: the national legal framework for consumer protection, the general design of the enforcement mechanism, the number and characteristics of consumer complaints
