This handbook provides valuable information for educators to use in developing a one-semester high school course on economics. The volume includes activity outlines, a model for assessment, and a list of resources to enhance instruction in economics. The handbook identifies methods to enrich instruction using the state-mandated economic component of the California high school curriculum. Chapter 1 reviews the basic components of microeconomics, macroeconomics, economic systems, and international trade as part of the course content. Chapter 2 describes issues-oriented activities to enliven economic concepts. Ten modules provide opportunities to encourage students to study economics through the application of basic concepts. Chapter 3 identifies the conceptual, semantic, and attitudinal hurdles that can interfere with a student's learning of economics. Chapter 4 illustrates a model for the assessment of student learning in a high school economics course. An appendix identifies 53 resources and addresses for further information to enhance high school economics instruction. (CK) original edition, this book offers exciting new research about the mind and the brain that provides answers to a number of compelling questions. When do infants begin to learn? How do experts learn and how is this different from non-experts? What can teachers and schools do—with curricula, classroom settings, and teaching methods—to help children learn most effectively? New evidence from many branches of science has significantly added to our understanding of what it means to know, from the neural processes that occur during learning to the influence of culture on what people see and absorb. How People Learn examines these findings and their implications for what we teach, how we teach it, and how we assess what our children learn. The book uses exemplary teaching to illustrate how approaches based on what we now know result in in-depth learning. This new knowledge calls into question concepts and practices firmly entrenched in our current education system. Topics include: How learning actually changes the physical structure of the brain. How existing knowledge affects what people notice and how they learn. What the thought processes of experts tell us about how to teach. The amazing learning potential of infants. The relationship of classroom learning and everyday settings of community and workplace. Learning needs and opportunities for teachers. A realistic look at the role of technology in education.
